Marcia

Marcia, the Italian word for a march, is a piece written for young bands and mimics the traditional march style. This piece presents an excellent opportunity for teaching young bands the march style and the 6/8 meter. Parts for oboe, bassoon, bass clarinet, and baritone sax are optional, and at all times double some other part at the unison or octave.

The piece begins in d minor, and instead of the traditional change to the subdominant key at the trio, changes to the relative major, F major. A tempo of mm=120 is marked, and should facilitate technique in the 6/8 meter.

The first strain (at m.5) is a forte unison trumpet melody with accompaniment. The second strain at (at m. 37) contains both a woodwind feature section and a brass feature. The first two strains and the segue to the trio are connected with percussion. The percussion break (at m.69) should be bold.

The trio melody is presented in three treatments. The first (at m.73) is the melody in the upper winds with a subtle accompaniment in the lower winds. The snare part, although simple in appearance, is very important to the style. The second (at m. 89) has a very subtle melody in the low woodwinds with a chance to feature a trumpet soloist on a trumpeting accompaniment with a snare part that plays rhythmically off the trumpet part. The third (at m. 105) is a full tutti. Make the countermelody here equal in importance to the melody. The full tutti continues through the ending section (at m.121).

Gary Runsten

Gary Runsten holds Bachelor of Music and Master of Music degrees from the University of Michigan where he performed under Dr. William D. Revelli, and has also performed under many band conductors and composers including Frederick Fennel, Robert Reynolds, Vaclav Nehlybel, Karel Husa, Norman Dello Joio, and Richard Franko Goldman. His 43 years in professional music include 26 years as a band director at three high schools in Modesto, CA, where he was also District H.S. Music Chairman.
